

Planning a Family Reunion?

Here is what to expect from that certain behavioral type in each family:

DiSC Product of the Month

Action Planners: A quick reference when it is important to understand another's style. DiSC Sales, Customer Service, Management and Managing Performance Action Planners are all available. 4 credits ($12.00) per report.

D A family reunion with a purpose

The “D” figure likes to be in charge and will delegate much of the party prep work to others. An email will be sent about the reunion. They enjoy a family reunion as long as it is short and sweet and does not interfere with something more important. Their socialization at the party will usually revolve around ‘shop talk’, since success at work is their comfort zone.

i What a party!

Everyone knows the “i”s love a party! They will make sure everyone has a good time. This reunion will have a theme, games, prizes, music and party favors. A dinner cruise or weekend long reunion is not out of the question. The more the merrier, so cousins and extended family will be invited. Elaborate and colorful invitations will be sent.

S A sentimental family reunion

The “S”s love a family reunion! They enjoy spending time with family and want it to be special. Each table will have a disposable camera for everyone to take lots of pictures. A photographer will be hired to come and take a group photo, which everyone would receive. Members will be asked to share a family moment that was special to them. A book with all the family history stories would be compiled and added to year after year.

C Organized and Detailed

“C”s will organize and plan down to the color of the napkins. Date and time will be set months in advance. Stick to a budget and be practical. A schedule will be hung up to show the order of events for the day.

Family Reunion Trivia:

- More than a third of U.S. adults – nearly 72 million Americans – traveled to a family reunion in the past three years, according to a recent survey by the Travel Industry Association.
- July 4th is the biggest reunion day of the year.
